

Dan Neidecker

Portland Community College Civil Engineering Scholarship

Dan is a current student in the Civil Engineering Technician program at Portland Community College.

Dan has always had an interest in the built world and has been a tinkerer for many years, but only recently decided to return to school to study engineering and make his passion a career. He hopes to obtain his degree and find a career as an engineering tech supporting public works projects in the Portland area.

He is delighted to be a recipient of the APWA Scholarship, which allows him greater freedom to focus on his studies while in school than would otherwise be possible.
