

Jorge Miranda

Polvi Sustainability Scholarship (OSU)

Jorge comes from a blue-collared background, one marked with balancing work and school. He continues to work in landscaping when not away from home. Outside academics, Jorge enjoys listening to music and exercising, mostly in the form of playing soccer and weight-lifting. He also enjoys being outdoors. A first-generation college student, his aims for the future are high as he is studying to become a civil engineer. He hopes to design buildings and infrastructures that serve a vital role to society while at the same time being friendlier to the environment.
